

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

Department of Cellular & Structural Biology
Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences
The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio

Applications are invited for an ASSISTANT PROFESSOR tenure track academic appointment in the Department of Cellular and Structural Biology within the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio. We seek an outstanding investigator poised to develop a vibrant research program. An ideal applicant will have expertise in stem cell biology and either aging, cancer, neuroscience, epigenetics or developmental biology. Candidates must hold a Ph.D., M.D., D.D.S. or equivalent degree and have a minimum of three years of productive postdoctoral experience. The selected candidate will be expected to participate in departmental teaching to professional students and graduate students. A competitive startup package is available. The UT Health Science Center at San Antonio is home to the Nathan Shock Center for Excellence in Biology of Aging, an NCI-designated cancer center, an NIH-funded Clinical Translational Science Award and the Greehey Children's Cancer Research Institute. The UT Health Science Center is designated an Hispanic Serving Institution. Recent hiring of new Deans for the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences and the School of Medicine and an administration focused on growth of the research mission, make this a wonderful opportunity for a new faculty member. The UT Health Science Center at San Antonio is a Tier One research institution located in the Northwest region of San Antonio and sits as a gateway to the picturesque Texas Hill Country. San Antonio is a dynamic and multicultural city with much to offer including an attractive cost-of-living.

Electronic submission (PDF) of a curriculum vita, statement of research interests, a list of 4 to 5 references with contact information and up to 3 high impact publications will constitute an application. Applications may be submitted to (email: jrfacsc@uthscsa.edu). Applications will be reviewed starting immediately and will continue until the position is filled.
